Changes to the questionnaire for the 2026 summer semester

1. New features for lectures with co-teachers

With the introduction of a new feature, we are responding to a frequently expressed request from teaching staff: for courses taught jointly by several teachers, certain evaluation questions are now automatically asked of each individual and assessed separately.

By restructuring the questionnaires (the 'lecturer-centred' questions were grouped into a single block) and enabling the Multiple Tutors function in the software, evaluations in which, in addition to a 'primary' (= the one submitting the evaluation), the 'lecturer-centred' questions are displayed as recurring lecturer blocks; that is, they are automatically repeated for each co-lecturer assigned to the evaluation. The remaining questions are asked of all assigned lecturers collectively.

Each person therefore receives an individual report (and can view only that one): the answers to the shared questions are the same for everyone, but for the repeated sections, everyone receives only their own personal answers. If a teacher has not received any answers to the teacher-centred questions, they will still receive the results of the shared questions, provided that at least five respondents participated.

➡ This function is suitable, for example, for a course that is divided into several parts, each of which is held by a different co-teacher. Important: All students on this course are taught by all co-teachers, i.e. all students are able to evaluate each teacher's lectures.

PLEASE NOTE: A course that runs multiple times and is taught by different teachers (largely independently of one another) or at different times (e.g. parallel groups) must still be registered separately for each individual co-teacher.

2. New FEGEX questionnaire for field exercises/excursions

In addition to the existing standard questionnaires, a newly developed FEGEX questionnaire has been created, designed specifically for field exercises and/or excursions. As well as new questions, it mainly includes questions from the FEUEB and FEPRA questionnaires.

3. Changes to the content of the questionnaire, incl. a new section on student learning behaviour

As part of the changes mentioned above, the content of the questionnaires has also been harmonised and adapted across the different versions. Some questions have been removed, others slightly changed, and individual questions that were previously only included in one version have been incorporated into the others as well.
In addition, all versions now include a new section on student learning behaviour.
